FISHING SCHOONERS SUNK OFF NOVA SCOTIA COAST

U-Boat Is Playing Havoc
With Fishing Vessels
On Grand Banks.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
A Canadian Atlantic Port, Aug. 21.—The steam trawler Triumph, fitted with two guns and wireless, and manned by 16 Germans from the U-boat which captured her yesterday, is raiding the fishing banks off the Nova Scotia coast. Crews of the schooners sunk by the Triumph have arrived here.

Vessels known to have been sunk by the converted raider are the Una P. Saunders of Lunenburg, the A. Platt Andrews of Gloucester, Mass., and the Francis J. O'Hara of Boston.

Captain Wallace Bruce, master of the E. Pratt Andrew, said on his arrival here that his vessel was held up by the Triumph yesterday and that he and his crew were given 10 minutes to leave the ship. The Germans then sank her with bombs.

Captain Myrrhe master of the Triumph, who landed here with his men this morning, said he was told by the captain of the submarine which captured his vessel that he was only one of six U-boats operating on this coast.

"We intend to destroy the fishing fleets," the German commander said to Captain Myrrhe.

The raider then bore down upon the Una P. Saunders and the Francis J. O'Hara and sunk them likewise. The dories carrying the crews of the three vessels reached here at 10 a. m. today. The fishermen say that while making for this port they heard firing and believed other fishing vessels were sunk by the raider.

Washington, Aug. 21.—Strong forces of swift naval patrolboats and destroyers sped today to the North Atlantic fishing banks where the trawler Triumph, captured yesterday by a German submarine which armed and manned, is reported raiding fishing fleets. Naval officers here think recapture of the trawler or her enforced destruction by the German crew is certain.

Shrewdness of the Triumph's skipper enabled the navy to plan action against the new raider without delay.

Naval officials concurred immediately in the opinion expressed by the fishing vessel captain that the unusual behavior of the German prize-crew evidently indicated their intention to use the vessel as an auxiliary raider.

Admiral Benson, chief of naval operations, at once communicated the information to the commander of the first naval district at Boston. While no details of the steps taken have been officially announced it is believed that the forces under the command of this officer was at the same time augmented by others from adjoining stations.

An Atlantic Port, Aug. 21.—A German submarine late yesterday seized the big fishing trawler Triumph. The crew, who have reached shore safely, said they believed the vessel was at the same time augmented by others from adjoining stations.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—John T. McCutcheon, cartoonist, and Lieutenant Lee Hammond, naval aviator, attached to the Great Lakes naval training station, today planned to return to the station from Grand Haven, Mich., where they arrived last night, after having spent four hours in a disabled hydroplane, miles away from land.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Preceded by two patrol planes McCutcheon and Hammond started on a trip across the lake to test a hydro-airplane of a new type.

Engine trouble developed and they were forced to descend in midlake. Hampered by fog and rough weather and with their compass out of commission, the aviators spent four hours repairing their engine and when the journey finally was resumed started in a wrong direction descending at Grand Travers bay, and later making their way to Frankfort, Mich., nearly 200 miles north of their scheduled destination.

GERMAN LINE REDUCED MORE THAN 50 MILES

Gen. March Tells of Allied Successes During the Past Month

32 AMERICAN DIVISIONS HAVE ARRIVED IN FRANCE

Is Necessary for Government to Charter and Hire Many Ships.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, Aug. 21.—As a result of the allied successes during the past month the battle front in France from Rheims to the North sea has been reduced in length more than 50 miles. General March told the newspapermen today in his mid-week conference.

When the Germans began their last advance the line stretched for 250 miles. It is now less than 200 miles.

General March enumerated 32 American divisions as having arrived in France. They are as follows:

First, second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 30th, 32nd, 33rd, 35th, 36th, 37th, 41st, 42nd, 76th, 77th, 78th, 79th, 80th, 81st, 82nd, 83rd, 85th, 89th, 90th, 91st, 92nd and 93rd.

The success of the enlarged American program of the war department General March said still is dependent upon acquisition of adequate shipping, and while the Emergency Fleet corporation is constantly swelling the tonnage at the army's disposal, it still is necessary to charter and hire many additional ships.

General March corrected a report that the 77th division (troops of New York City and vicinity) was being sent to Italy. It was last reported he said, in the Vosges.

In answer to questions the chief of staff said that the 36th National Guard and Nineteenth National army divisions including many Texans, reached France between July 30 and August 13 and have been in training. The Ninetieth, he said, has not reached the front line.

The 26th National Guard division (New England) which participated in numerous attacks near Chateau-Thierry and which aided in the capture of the towns of Torgny and Belleu was relieved from its position on the Marne front on July 22 and is now back of the lines for recuperation.

Lacking official detail of the British drive reported in Associated Press dispatches this morning, General March declined to comment upon this new allied thrust. He said (Continued from page 2, Col. 1)

CLOSE SURVEILLANCE FOR SOLDIERS FROM ALSACE-LORRAINE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Paris, Aug. 21.—The German command is faced by a more or less serious difficulty as a result of the presence on the western front of divisions containing tens of thousands of soldiers from Alsace and Lorraine who, up to this time, never have been employed in active fighting.

Documents captured reiterate an order issued by the German crown prince, instructing the commanders of the various units to keep the men from Alsace-Lorraine under the closest surveillance and not to utilize them at critical points in the line as many desertions had been reported.

Alsations and Lorrainers must never be left alone in the fighting zone, but must always be accompanied by German soldiers in which absolute confidence can be placed. One order says that any soldier from Alsace-Lorraine that comes under suspicion must be treated with an iron hand.

GERMANY HAS SUNK 20 PER CENT SPANISH MERCHANT MARINE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Paris, Aug. 21.—Spain has informed Germany that because of the serious inroads submarine sinkings have made into Spanish shipping, Spain hereafter will use German vessels now in Spanish ports in place of tonnage sunk. This announcement is made in an official statement issued after a meeting of the Spanish cabinet at San Sebastian. The Spanish government declares that it will continue to maintain strict neutrality. The statement says that 20 per cent of the Spanish merchant marine has been sunk and more than 100 Spanish sailors killed.

HOUSE TO REPORT FAVORABLY ON NEW DRAFT BILL

Washington, Aug. 21.—A favorable report was voted by the house military committee today on the administration man power bill, with an amendment providing that youths from 18 to 20 years of age shall be placed in separate classifications to be called into military service after men from 20 to 47.

Another amendment by Chairman Dent provides that the fact that a soldier has not reached 21 shall not bar him from a commission.

A section added at the request of the war department, provides that men of draft age may be sent to colleges for technical training in uniform, without changing their military status.

No vote was taken in the committee on the work or fight amendment, objected to by organized labor, which was added to the bill as reported to the senate. The amendment is certain to figure in house debate, however.

Chairman Dent presented his report immediately after the house convened and obtained unanimous consent to have it taken up tomorrow with right of way over all other business. He thinks it can be passed by Friday.

Representative Kahn, ranking republican member of the committee, will lead the fight on the floor against the amendment directing separate classification of younger registrants, contending that the war department should be left to work out this question according to its program.

Consideration of the bill also will begin tomorrow in the senate.

FREE RIDES FOR ALL WHO REFUSE TO PAY ADVANCE

Columbus, Aug. 21.—When the Columbus Railway, Power & Light company last night raised fares to 5 cents with 1-cent added for each transfer it voluntarily gave up its city franchise and will operate cars on sufferance on all streets where perpetual rights are not asserted.

The company also has filed a suit in the federal district court to enjoin city officials from interfering with its intention to stop selling tickets.

The fares have been eight tickets for a quarter, with free transfers. The franchise still has seven years to run. The company stated in instructions to employees on the new fares that any person refusing to pay the advanced rate would be allowed to ride free.

FRENCH PREMIER VISITS THE FRONT

Paris, Aug. 21.—(Havas)—Premier Clemenceau visited the fighting front Tuesday and saw the first results of General Mangin's successful attack between the Oise and the Aisne. On his return last night he said he was satisfied with the progress made.

SHOOT RUSSIAN OFFICERS AFTER ARRESTING THEM

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Amsterdam, Aug. 21.—Several hundred of 15,000 officers arrested in Moscow have been shot, according to a letter written in Moscow on August 14 by Dr. Alfons Paquet and published in the Frankfurt Zeitung.

Some of the officers who renounced Russian citizenship or acquired German or Polish passes were released at the request of the German consul general. The remainder was sent to a concentration camp surrounded by artillery. The officers, it is added, were subjected to conditions "begging all description." Those imprisoned included a number of former generals and colonels.

Dr. Paquet says that several hundred British and French business men have been arrested in Moscow and adds that further arrests of representatives of the Moscow bourgeois are expected. If this proves inadequate to maintain order, he continues, "a reign of terror with public executions is unavoidable."

ADVANCE TOWARDS OISE CONSIDERED IMPORTANT STROKE

Paris, Aug. 21.—(Havas)—General Mangin's advance toward the Oise is an important stroke in the view of military critics and constitutes a threat at the outflanking of Noyon from the east as well as decided help to the army of General Humbert, operating between the Matz and the Oise.

The plan of Marshal Foch, the critics believe, is aimed at consolidating the front of the armies of Mangin and Humbert and forcing the enemy to withdraw probably on a large scale. The Germans are striving to prevent this at all costs. In addition to the more than 8000 prisoners captured Tuesday, General Mangin took numerous guns and a large amount of material.

In answer to an assertion in the German official statement the newspapers declared unanimously that the operation was not an attempt to break through the German line but only a part of the strategic plan which had in operation July 18. The Echo de Paris adds that the plan is not yet completed.

LEADERS WORRIED OVER POSSIBILITY OF A REVOLUTION

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
British Headquarters in France, Aug. 21.—Germany's military leaders now have become distinctly worried over the prospects of a revolution in Germany. General Ludendorff, in a captured secret order, has taken steps to employ the assistance of his commanding officers and in various governmental agencies to help him stamp out the flowing spark which has been seen. The order, which is more illuminating than anything which has come out of Germany in many months follows:

"It has come to my knowledge through a letter addressed to the royal Prussian ministry of war, that men on leave have spoken publicly of a revolution which is to break out after the war.

"A soldier, said to have come from the industrial region of Rhinish Westphalia, declared in a train that in his home district men were going on leave, taking weapons with them for the aforesaid object and that it was easy to take home German or captured revolvers as well as hand-grenades separated into two parts.

"I desire that the clothing of men going on leave be searched as test cases before their departure. It will be possible to carry this out at the baths and dressing stations."

Another order just captured, bearing the signature of the chief of staff of the Forty First infantry division recites that courts martial have had various and an increasing number of cases where subordinates emphatically refused to accompany their units into the line and where "superior officers have neglected to enforce obedience by failing to compel the cowards to go into the front line."

In still another document, General Ludendorff says that there are constant reports of German officers on leave voicing utterances that are calculated to awaken feeling of doubt as to German preparedness for battle. He mentions an officer in Berlin, who said that further offensives were impossible on the western front because of the shortage of horses and oats. General Ludendorff warns officers against spreading unfavorable rumors.

ATTACK, MADE WITHOUT ARTILLERY PREPARATION, COMPLETELY SUCCESSFUL AND ADVANCE OF TWO MILES TAKES PLACE

OFFENSIVE IN ARRAS AREA BELIEVED TO BE MOVE OF GEN. FOCH TO BREAK OLD GERMAN LINE

The New Offensive with Companion One South of the Oise Is Strong Attempt to Force Germans to Retire All Along the Line—French Troops Continue Advance Along the Whole Front Between the Oise and the Aisne, Capturing Much Important Ground—Fall of Noyon Threatened as it is Slowly Being Outflanked.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
London, Aug. 21.—British forces have captured Courcelles, Achiet-Le-Petit and have reached Moyenneville and Beaumont-sur-Ancres in their drive which began this morning north of the Ancres river, according to advices from the front.

The British attack this morning was between Moyenneville and Beaumont-sur-Ancres, a distance of about 8½ miles. It is reported that the British have advanced from two to three miles along this front.

The attack of the British this morning was made without artillery preparation. It was completely successful. The attack was made by the British Third army under General Byng.

After capturing Achiet-Le-Petit the British troops advanced another mile and a half to the east and reached Achiet-Le-Grand.

While the width of the attacking front is not clearly defined "a wide front" probably would include a line from the Ancres to the Scarpe about 15 miles. There has not been any heavy fighting recently on the line north of the Ancres, as the Germans some days ago retired slightly on the front between Beaumont Hamel and Buequoy. There has been more or less raiding activity, however.

The battle front from north of the Ancres to north of Lens has not seen as great a change as other sectors between Ypres and Rheims since the beginning of the German offensive March 21. In making an attack here it would appear that Marshal Foch is striving to break the old German line in the Arras area.

Any considerable forward movement would menace the German positions north and south for many miles.

"Strategically a blow would seem to be a companion one to the French offensive south of the Oise and a strong attempt to force the Germans to retire all along the line."

FRENCH CONTINUE ADVANCE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Paris, Aug. 21.—French troops continued their advance along the whole front between the Oise and the Aisne this morning. Carlepoint and Cuts have been captured by the French, according to the official statement issued at the war office today.

After sharp fighting, ground has been taken west of Lassigny by the French, the statement says.

The text of the statement reads:

"During the night the situation between the Oise and the Aisne remained unchanged. The enemy did not attempt any reaction. This morning our troops continued their advance along the whole front.

"Carlepoint and Cuts have fallen into our hands.

"We have taken ground west of Lassigny after sharp fighting.

"A number of German surprise attacks were repulsed."

GERMAN ARMY HAS LOST LIBERTY OF ACTION

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Paris, Aug. 21.—The new French attack by General Mangin on a 25-kilometer front threatens, according to the latest reports, the fall of Noyon which slowly is being outflanked.

The attack, while lacking the element of surprise has overcome the carefully prepared preparations of the enemy. On his advanced lines the enemy had a formidable array of machine guns, forming a shield for his real line of defense. Thus, he had two zones of command.

The German army has lost its liberty of action, says Colonel Fabry, military critic of the Paris Qui, and assistant to Marshal Joffre when the latter visited America last year, and this plainly has been brought about by the entente high command.

The new offensive, it is believed here, will give the French complete control of the valleys of the Oise, Ailette and Aisne in the quadrilateral of Rabeccourt, Noyon, Beaumont and Soissons.

Much territory filled with strong positions however, is yet to be won. The strategy of General Mangin in first clearing the enemy's shield of machine guns before the big attack forces the enemy to rely now on picked divisions.

BRITISH ATTACK ON WIDE FRONT

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
London, Aug. 21.—An attack on a wide front north of the Ancres river was launched by the British forces this morning, says the official statement from Field Marshal Haig today.

Tuesday afternoon the British threw back strong German attacks against the new British positions south and north of the Scarpe.

The statement reads:

"We attacked at 4:55 o'clock this morning on a wide front north of the Ancres river. Our troops are reported to be making satisfactory progress.

"Yesterday afternoon strong hostile attacks, accompanied by heavy bombardments against our new positions south and north of the Scarpe were completely repulsed."

"We improved our positions slightly in the neighborhood of Fampoux (east of Arras) and captured a few prisoners."

"We advanced our line during the night between Festubert and the Lawe river (on the southern side of the Lys salient) and are in possession of Le Touret."

"Early this morning British troops carried out a successful local operation in the Loeze sector on a front of more than a mile. All the objectives of the attack were taken and a number of prisoners were captured."

FIELD GUNS AND PRISONERS ARE TAKEN

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
With the British Army in France, Aug. 21.—In the first hour of the offensive begun this morning by Field Marshal Haig the British troops captured the towns of Abbeville, Beaumont and Moyenneville.

The British attacked on a front of 10 miles between Arras and Albert. The attacks extended from the Ancres river at Beaumont to just north of Moyenneville.

Some German field guns and 200 prisoners had been taken in the British drive at an early hour.

All the German outposts and positions along the important Dracoutte ridge, between Koudchet and the Loeze Hospice have been attacked by the British. The result so far is not known. This front is in the Lys salient.

Courcelles and Achiet-Le-Petit also was captured in the British drive.

Field Marshal Haig this morning launched an offensive on a front of about 10,000 yards. The high contour between Adinfer and Moyenneville was the northern zone of attack and Puisseux-Au-Mont the southern land mark of the front. The enemy lately has been withdrawing in order to increase the depth of his defenses.

Although the enemy has been very vigilant and expecting an attack he was tactically surprised this morning. The heavy night mist, increasing to Heved that Germans intended to use the trawler as a raider. The fishermen reported that the U-boat was playing havoc with the fleet of fishing vessels on the Grand banks.

The Triumph was halted on the fishing banks by the U-boat and the crew was permitted to take to the dories. The fishermen said that the trawler was still afloat when they last saw her.

An armed guard of Germans had been placed aboard and no preparations were being made to sink the ship, the Triumph's men said. This led them to the conclusion that the Germans intended to use her as a raider.

The Triumph is owned by the North Atlantic Fisheries company, and is one of the crack boats of the fleets.

WOULD HAVE TO RECOAL TRAWLER EVERY TEN DAYS

(Associated Press Telegram)
Boston, Aug. 21.—Fishermen here said today that if the German submarine made use of the trawler Triumph, seized yesterday as a raider, they would have to recoal the craft at least every 10 days. The Triumph was manned by a Canadian crew and is owned by a Canadian company.

Fishermen said the scene of the attack undoubtedly was on the western banks of the Nova Scotia coast in the open sea and outside of the three-mile zone of Canadian waters. New England vessels have not visited the western banks since German submarines were first reported in the Bay of Fundy several weeks ago.

GERMAN LINE

describing the period which had elapsed since his last talk that the allies had continued their attacks on limited fronts and at widely separated points.

In Flanders, he pointed out the points of the salient which had existed there have been bent in by allied attacks southeast of Ypres, on the north flank, and near Merville, on the south side. The apex was thus made "unhealthy" for the enemy and he was forced to withdraw for from one to two miles on a fourteen mile front.

On the plains near the Duse the allied advance has put the line well back of the old 1916-1917 line. General March said the war department had not yet received details of the capture of Erpeldre, in the Vosges, by the Fifth United States division (regulars). The line at this point is four miles over the German border.

In commenting upon the shipping situation General March divulged for the first time the fact that Brazil had given a ship to the United States without compensation of any sort for two trips. He said that so far as he knew this was the only case of the kind on record.

Answering further questions regarding individual divisions, General March said the 76th division (New England and New York National army) now serving as a depot division and is stationed in a back area. The 80th division (Pennsylvania and Virginia National army) is serving with the British in Flanders.

NEW DRIVE INAUGURATED BY BRITISH

steam-like smoke, enabled the British to reach the points of assembly without the chance of detection.

A great concourse of tanks maneuvered into position as quickly as possible. The first advance of the British was made at 5.05 o'clock this morning after a very brief "crash" bombardment. The retaliation was very light at first, no doubt owing to the difficulty of the Germans seeing the British troops in the haze and they got on rapidly.

Later the assault, lengthening the front by about another 5,000 yards, materialized according to plan. The general impression is that things are going very satisfactory for the British.

Some 200 prisoners were taken with great promptitude. They were chiefly from the second guards division and the Fourth Bavarian division. Some field guns fell into the hands of the British very early in the attack. The German infantry was discovered to be weak in places, some companies not having more than a strength of fifty of all ranks.

Although prisoners said the Germans had been expecting the attack for a week it was a tactical surprise. Tanks and infantry advanced through the heaviest fire in the gray morning light.

After a brief bombardment the British troops were upon the enemy, almost before he knew it.

Early today it was much too thick for aerial observation but rumors reported that by 7:30 o'clock Mouenneville and Ablanzville had been reached and that by 8:30 the British were at Courcelles-Le-Comte, Achiet-Le-Petit, and Beaucourt-sur-Ancre.

The morning is expanding into a blue and golden summer day with plenty of power in the sun to cut up all the mists so that all the British airmen will take a great hand in the battle.

FRENCH ON OUTSKIRTS OF NOYON

(Associated Press Telegram)
London, Aug. 21, 4:45 p. m.—French troops advanced three miles today along the Oise and reached Sempigny, a mile from the outskirts of Noyon, according to reports from the battle front.

The line occupied by General Mangin's army at 2 o'clock this afternoon ran from Sempigny to Pontoise and thence to La Pommeraye, Mont Choisy, Cuts, Camelin, Blercourt, St. Aubin, La Tour Farm, Mont Du Croix farm, Vezaponin, Bieuvy, Laval and reaches the Aisne at Cortil.

No further details of the fighting north on the Aisne have reached London since noon. Reports were received telling of the capture of Achiet-Le-Grand, but they have not been absolutely confirmed.

BRITISH TAKE NUMBER OF TOWNS

(Compiled from A. P. Dispatches)
British forces struck the Germans over a front of approximately ten miles on the line southwest of Arras at dawn this morning.

According to meagre details received from the scene of the new assault, the British have advanced from two to three miles and have captured the towns of Moyenneville, Courcelles, Orhiet-Le-Petit and Beaucourt-sur-Ancre and have reached the town of Achiet-Le-Grand.

The assault was begun under a mist which materially assisted the British in their advance. There was a very brief artillery preparation and it would appear that the plan of attack was similar to that followed south of the Aisne July 18 and north of Montdidier Aug. 8. A large number of tanks participated in the attack.

Unofficial dispatches appear to indicate that the British advance has carried the battle line up to a point 2 miles from Bapaume, an important highway center and a place reputed to be an important German base in the northern Picardy sector.

If the British drive continues to press the Germans back along the northern side of the Picardy salient, the enemy forces further south would appear to be in a serious position. They are at present holding back the French and British along a line west of and parallel to the Somme, and north of that river they have been repeatedly resisting allied attacks as far north as Albert. The new advance seems to have placed the northern section of the enemy's front in great danger.

In the Flanders battle area the Germans also are under heavy pressure. The British official report states that during last night an attack was made from Festubert, just northwest of Lens to the Lawe river, a distance of more than four miles. The village of La Tourne, at about the middle of this line, has been captured. This marks an advance of nearly a mile at this point.

On the northern side of the Las Poplar avenue. At hospital where she died after taking her own life, she had given the name of Helen Myers. Miss Wilson had gone to Akron about a year ago and was employed by the Goodyear Rubber company. Her father and sisters were called to Akron and were with her at death. She is survived by her parents, of 103 West Poplar avenue, two sisters and a brother.

The funeral services will be held on Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the home, Rev. Mr. Carman officiating. Interment will be made in Cedar Hill cemetery.

GOES FROM NEWARK.

James C. Hendricks, employed at Broughton's shoe shop, has been transferred from Padersburg, W. Va., to this city, and will leave with the Newark quota, August 28, for Camp Taylor, Kentucky.

Live by Growing.

Do not be content to stand still in life unless you move with it; the world passes you and you are really going backward. Have some aim in life, some goal to reach. To reach something ahead of you will call for daily self-improvement. However good or wise you may be, you can be wiser and better. There is always room for improvement. No person is so humble that something may not be learned from him. Objects that daily meet your eyes may suggest useful thoughts—if you rightly use your eyes. Do not think yourself good enough as you are. One should always grow as long as there is life. Constant growth of mind and soul keeps one still young when years are many. One can always be learning of life. To be useful, to be of service, is a great aim. Let not a day pass by without having been useful in some way to somebody or some good cause. The more useful the greater the value of your life.—Milwaukee Journal.

Just a Little Too Much.

Young Fiddle was a very learned young man, and his friends were all very disappointed, not to say surprised, when he refused to accept the degree of doctor of divinity. One of his colleagues tackled him on the subject. "Ah, well," replied the learned young man, "it's enough to be named Fiddle, without being Fiddle, D. D."

In war times the horny handed son of toil should daily with the horn of plenty.

PATENTED JUNE 13, 1899

Patent Sustained by U. S. Circuit Court, July 5, 1905. Patent Sustained by U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, March 6, 1906. Again Sustained, July 20, 1910.

Beware of imitations and unscrupulous people who claim to have a stove like or just as good as the Florence. Do not be deceived by such false claims and find it out when too late. Examine the Florence carefully before you buy.

NO SMOKE! NO SOOT! NO DIRT! NO CLINKERS!
EVERYTHING IS CONSUMED.

At the end of the season's use with soft coal, there will be no soot in the pipe or flue.

The only jointless leg bottom and base with full radiation and large ash pan that is on the market or has ever been made in the history of the stove industry.

The jointless leg bottom and base makes the stove air-tight below the grate, which is the only true fire keeping principle.

It will be as good a fire keeper twenty years hence as it is today.

The Hot Blast Air-Tight Florence will heat twice the space that can be heated by any other stove on earth at one-half the cost.

The only perfect floor heater that is or has ever been made.

All features are patented and no stove manufacturer, dealer or user can copy or use same until the expiration of the patent without incurring liability for an action for damages.

If the FLORENCE is operated according to directions:

The No. 21 will heat 1 small room all winter with 2 tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 49 will heat 2 or 3 small rooms all winter with 2 3-4 tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 151 or No. 73 will heat from 2 to 4 ordinary rooms all winter with 3 tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 153 or No. 75 will heat from 3 to 5 ordinary rooms all winter with 4 tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 155 or No. 77 will heat from 4 to 6 ordinary rooms all winter with 6 tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 155, One and One-half Sections High, is used for store rooms, school rooms and churches. Ordinary rooms of this description may be heated all winter with 6 tons of slack or lump coal.

Will burn a ton less of hard coal than a hard coal Base Burner of the same size and heat twice the space.

THE HOT BLAST AIR-TIGHT FLORENCE burns soft coal or slack and all the smoke and gases. No filling up of the stove, pipe or flue with soot. No dirt inside or outside the house. It will burn hard coal and all the gases which escape from the hard coal base burner. It will burn wood and sawdust, wet or dry. It will produce one-half less ashes than any other stove on earth with any kind of fuel and leave no clinkers or half consumed fuel.

GRAND.

Oliver Thomas. Tien Thun, the midget, at the Ritz Hotel, was yesterday advised by the attorneys for the late John Hodges that she is the inheritor of his vast estate estimated at from twenty to fifty millions.

The pretty little midget was engaged at her occupation with the news reached her. She was almost stunned. She is a granddaughter of Hodges. For years there has been no communication between Mr. Hodges and his granddaughter, the midget. Seven years ago he had written her, but she had been furious at the cause of a quarrel between her father and her grandfather.

Society will now be obliged to accept into its midst the humble midget who has cared for the finger-nails of the rich and kept pudgy old bachelors and fresh scions of the wealthy at arm's length.

Miss Thurston has social ambitions. She professes that she has always had them, and that she had often sighed for the beautiful gowns and gayety of fashionable life. She will now be able to gratify her every whim.

Where fortune waits she very often falls to bestow beauty and wit. In Miss Thurston's case there is beauty of a striking order, and a keen and refined personality.

"Heiress for a Day" is the name of the Triangle play where in these millions are inherited, and Olive Thomas is the charming star who goes through a series of thrilling incidents in this decidedly interesting story. This picture will be shown at the Grand theatre on Thursday and Friday.

Alhambra. Wednesday and Thursday. "Will you be my prince?" asked little Madge of the new manager of her father's estate, after she had carefully brushed his hair. "Sure," he replied, and she served him faithfully later on, in "The Golden Wall," one of the latest world-picture productions.

This is a love story of great beauty adapted from a famous French romance. Here money can be a barrier to true love after the young lover has sworn that he would not marry the heiress until she were as poor as he.

or he as rich as she and low this obstacle was overcome will be seen at the Alhambra Wednesday and Thursday. Good luck overcame the obstacle, and when Carlyle Blackwell, as the young marquis, was eligible and had proven that he was not a fortune hunter, little Madge showed the way to happiness.

Friday and Saturday. Viola Dana nearly sprained her right wrist while acting in thrilling scenes for "The Only Road," a Metro All-Star Series picture which will be shown at the Alhambra Friday and Saturday. It all happened in the interest of her art, in becoming dead shot with a pistol.

A mighty big six-shooter, of the approved Western type, to develop skill and quickness on the trigger, Miss Dana made several trips to the Imperial Valley, where she occupied her spare time shooting at jack rabbits and coyotes, with her pearl-handled "22." But when she came to do her shooting scene she was handed a "44" and she shot it several times. Hence the lane west is several times.

Sunday. Admirers of Tom Moore, leading man for Mabel Normand in "Dodging a Million" and "The Floor Below," her latest production, will be glad to know that he will appear in Goldwyn's picture for a long time to come. Goldwyn has placed him under contract. Now they tell Moore that Moore will be all-vile his time among all the Goldwyn constellation, much to Miss Normand's chagrin.

GEM. A composite impersonation of Zapata and Villa, the notorious Mexican dictators, in "The Patriot," the original production of "The Patriot," is said to be sensationally faithful to the originals. "The Patriot" which stars William S. Hart, calls for a bandit character, "Zapata." One being cast for this role, Mr. Talmadge made an extensive collection of photographs showing each of the well-known desperadoes in various positions. He then spent a full week on determining the "makeup" that would enable him to present the salient features of the two bandits.

A sensation followed his first appearance in this "make-up." Both Mr. Hart and Mr. Katterjohn, the author, found it difficult to believe that the man before them was Mr. Talmadge. "The Patriot" will be shown at the Gem theatre on Thursday. It is a thrilling patriotic play with none of the horrors of war.

Auditorium. "De Luxe Annie." Large crowds saw dainty Norma Talmadge in her latest Select Corp. feature, "De Luxe Annie," adapted for the screen by Paul West from the present stage success of the same name by Edward Clark, which was made from the Broadway play by Seamen and Woodward in the Saturday Evening Post. The picture was directed by Roland West.

At her lodges in Riverview, Walter Kendal, a successful lawyer, is summing up with his wife and their little daughter Janet, in the midst of a pleasant family scene, while Kendal is representing his wife with a new brooch. Dr. Fernand Niblo is announced; he is a scientist interested in criminal psychology. Kendal and he goes off to the lawyer's New York house to trap De Luxe Annie, a confidence worker who believes she has a prince in a victim of the de-luxe game, a modern variant of the baiter game, in which the wife is the bait and the husband is the baiter. Annie has arranged with Jimmy to break into the house if "anything goes wrong."

After Kendal and Niblo leave, Julie takes her daughter to sleep with a dark tale entitled "How Nipper Fooled the House," where Nipper escapes on ice skates. June grows afraid to stay alone in the country house and follows her husband to town.

The last screening of this big seven reel feature is seen today.

"Blue Blazes Rawden." The story in which Thomas H. Hart presents Wm. H. Hart for his fourth appearance in an Aircraft picture, which will be shown at the Alhambra theatre, beginning tomorrow, is entitled "Blue Blazes Rawden," and has a rough, brutalized man in a sense of better things through the appeal of a woman who has lost her own son and takes the rough northwestern to her heart in place of the boy she has lost.

AMUSEMENTS

An "Blue Blazes Rawden," Hart is a lumberjack who has lived all his life in the great woods and whose existence is a compound of hard work, fierce fighting, earnings scattered in dance-halls as soon as received. With no influence to alter this accustomed round, living as he does in one of the remote places of the world, he shares the same life as the rough folks of the lumber camps.

Rawden, with his pockets full of money, comes out of the wilderness with his nondescript laborer and proceeds to a familiar haunt, a hotel with the popular adjunct of a bar, dance-hall and gambling room, maintained by "ladyness" Hilda, a girl in an Englishman, a cynical rascal whose escapades all over the world.

have at last landed him in this remote place of concealment. Between Rawden and Hilda there is instinctive antipathy, which bursts into hatred when Rawden humiliates Hilda in his own stronghold and soundly thrashes the burly bouncer who represents the insult to his master. Rawden adds fuel to the flames by winning Hilda's possessions at his own gambling tables. As a last hope of revenge Hilda suggests a duel in a room and falls a victim to the bullet of his rival.

Before dying Hilda confesses that he is glad to leave the world, as his mother is on her way to join him and it would break her heart if she knew the life he had led. Rawden swears all the habits to secrecy and threatens to shoot the man who dares to tell anything to the mother, who arrives with Eric, a young son.

The engagement is for three days.

Nazimova. Nazimova, the great star of the Metro pictures, "Revelation," which will be presented at the Auditorium theatre Sunday and Monday, shows her ability as an artistic interpreter of classic dancing in this photodrama.

Dressed as a bacchant, a priestess of Bacchus, god of wine and revelry, with a garland of grapes across her shoulders, with a goblet in one hand, and a cluster of grapes in the other, she performs "La Danse Bacchant," typifying the exuberant spirit of revelry of a Persian café.

The great Nazimova executed this dance with true artistry and poetry of motion in graceful movements which were ideal for translation by the motion picture camera. On the screen this dance is a revelation in accurate presentation of dance movements in motion pictures.

Auditorium Notes. Large crowds saw Norma Talmadge's latest Select picture, "De Luxe Annie," at the Auditorium yesterday. It is a thrilling story but the unexpected psychological twist makes it even more absorbing. It will be seen today for the last time.

True S. James, an actor of world-wide reputation, played an important role in "Revelation," the big Screen Classic's Production, coming to the Auditorium next Sunday and Monday. Alla Nazimova is the star and this celebrated actress is seen at her best.

"The Girl Without a Chance," a play that made some here last season, has been booked for a showing at the Auditorium again early in September. "Don't Lick Your Wife," a musical play, will also be seen soon.

"Tarzan of the Apes" will come to Newark soon and will be seen at the Auditorium. The picture, which is the Broadway Theatre, New York, was one of the most successful of the entire career of this house as a picture theatre. The fight between Tarzan and the lions, the combat with the huge cannibal, and the struggle between the ante giant ape, interspersed with jungle romance, makes this one of the greatest features of its kind ever produced.

Sensation lovers will revel in the fact that Mr. Fenberg has coming the first week in September the massive picture, "The Whip," the story of a world-famous play which stormed London at the Drury theatre for two solid weeks.

Owing to many requests of many who were unable to get to the Auditorium yesterday to see "Careless America," the starting picture warning in motion pictures, Mr. Fenberg has held the feature over for today and will be shown together with "De Luxe Annie."

The Select Pictures Corp. feature in which Norma Talmadge is shown, "Careless America," is a thrilling picture and the accident that is shown throughout the entire showing remarkable features and it is a wonder that no one was hurt in the making. It must be seen to be appreciated. Remember today last times.

"The Eagle's Eye." Harry Ellen, manager of the Lyric theatre, has booked the novel serial photodrama, "The Eagle's Eye," produced by The Whartons and founded on a story by Wm. J. Flynn, recently published in "The Nation," a magazine of the United States.

Service, in which he makes a complete and most startling exposure of the Imperial German Government's espionage, intrigue and propaganda in America.

This serial is produced in twenty episodes, each a complete picture, and is covered by the Secret Service. One episode will be shown each week beginning Sunday.

The principal characters are played by King Baggot and Marguerite Snow, the popular and widely known screen stars. A very unique feature of this serial is the impersonation of the screen of Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador in London, Karl Boy-Eid and Franz von Papen, German naval and military attaches, and Dr. Heinrich Albert, the Imperial German fiscal agent who financed propaganda to create public opinion in this country in favor of Germany.

TANKS VS. MACHINE GUNS

The German army has placed a tremendous reliance upon machine guns. Our advancing troops have reported the number of these weapons held by the Germans as almost innumerable.

In the trench fighting of 1917, when the British made super-human efforts to advance their lines at the cost of 500,000 men, it was machine guns that held them up. In those days a 1,000 yard advance was called a good one. After the men had bucked into the trench line for about a mile, they would find the way full of little concrete shelters for machine gun fighting. The advance would be stopped.

As a result of the effectiveness of this form of defense, the total gain netted by the British in a half season of advance on the Passchendaele ridge was only about five miles. At that rate it would take them 20 years to drive the Huns out of France and Belgium.

Now our troops have been able to advance as much as seven miles in a day. It looks as if the machine gun problem had been fairly well solved. The tanks have been the biggest factor in doing it. These little armored cars suffer little from machine gun fire. They are too agile for big guns, and little guns cannot penetrate their armor.

These armored tanks can come very close to winning the war. As a means of offense they are even more effective than airplanes. The airplane is absolutely necessary for scouting, for finding out what the enemy is up to, and for directing artillery fire. But when it comes to breaking a trench line full of machine gun nests, the tank is the thing. Henry Ford and others are building a lot of them.

But we can't build any too many. With a line of them behind every point on the trench line our troops could advance almost any time, and the Boche could be kept constantly on the run.

PERSONAL JOURNALISM.

The retirement of Henry Watter-son from the active editorship of the Louisville Courier-Journal takes away one of the old giants whose personal force was so dominating a figure in the American press. We have plenty of big men in the newspaper business still. As a whole the average intellectual ability is higher than it used to be.

But today the work is more personal. The big newspapers are great machines, where few of the readers know or care who writes what they read in haste. In the smaller newspapers the editor is or-ten a personal force. But running a newspaper is a more difficult business problem than it used to be. A great many editors find their best thought absorbed by the business office.

The old time editor spent his whole time in his office, buried deep in dusty papers and books. He thought deeply, read much, and his writing was shrewd, mature and pertinent.

The modern editor mingles more with daily life. He does not spend so much time in the world of books, but he spends more in the world of men. He is less brilliant a writer, but is a more active practical worker for community progress.

The career of a man like Watter-son may well be an inspiration to every youth who aspires to newspaper success. He did not make as much money as some, but he rendered more service and attained greater respect. The way for the young journalist to follow along the same path is to study the masters of English style, be ashamed to turn out slovenly writing, read deeply of history and politics, converse much with men of many points of view, and always speak what he thinks. It is a career full of rewards superior to money.

THE SHIPPING TRIUMPH.

In one department after another of our war work, we have struck our gate, and have attained a production far greater than anyone dared dream of a year ago.

Not more than six months ago many of our pessimists were declaring that we would build only about 2,000,000 dead weight tons of ships in the year 1918. The consensus of intelligent judgment was that we would perhaps build 3,000,000 to 3,500,000. Yet here in July the production went away over 6,000,000 tons. The August record is likely to be better still. We are much more likely to build 5,000,000 than 3,000,000 tons this year.

The way this situation is turning out should be a warning to the pessimists and detractors who have constantly underestimated our war work, and endeavored to prove that the executives in charge are grossly incompetent.

We built a great new industry, one of the biggest of the country, out of nothing. We harmonized labor troubles, and got the warring elements to pull together. We built towns for the workpeople to work and dwell in. We drew materials from workshops all over the country, and organized a great army to put them together. We educated this great army to all the multifarious details of a complicated and skilled trade. Most of them previously knew no more about ships than they did about the North Pole. We created an entirely new conception of standardized ships, capable of being turned out in quantity production, and we worked it out in a practical way from wholly new plans.

And today the ships are dropping into the water so fast that there is an almost continual splash on our shores. The submarine that we feared so much is beaten, and our enemies know it. This great triumph should give us confidence in our leaders, and show that everything that is being done does not appear on the surface.

MOTOR TRUCK.

An interesting illustration of how motor trucks can be utilized to promote easy transportation of commodities and people, has been given at Maysville, Kentucky. The business men of that town had been having trouble in getting merchandise to their customers. Meanwhile there were plenty of motor trucks whose services were not fully taken advantage of.

A lot of these truck drivers were called together and they formed an organization. The business men arranged to call the Chamber of Commerce office whenever they had goods to be delivered.

So every day the truckmen would call at the Chamber of Commerce, get the orders of goods to be delivered, and take the merchandise around systematically, with the least possible duplication of service. Many people desiring transportation also use the trucks. These machines cover a distance running out 20 miles.

The result is to bring the surrounding country into close touch with Maysville, and to bring many people into the city to buy goods.

Schemes like these provide the better transportation which is so necessary to reduce costs of getting farm and other products to the consumer. Formerly it was thought that by building trolley lines about the country districts the farmers would be brought close to the market. But railroad construction is so costly that few trolley lines are being built today. The motor truck is the great means by which the country districts can be linked closely with the centers of population. The result will be to reduce cost of food, and to encourage people to live and work on the farms.

THE NEW DRAFT BILL.

(Cleveland Plain Dealer.)
The military affairs committee of the senate voted approval of the measure for extending the draft age both ways from present limits, so that men from 18 to 45 will be liable for service, and the committee will report the bill favorably tomorrow.

This is distinctly a speed-the-war proposal. With but slight amendment, if any, it is expected that senate and house will make the bill a law. It is urged by the president and the war department. It is doubtful if any legitimate objection will be urged against the measure.

As the bill goes to the senate it carries an amendment by Reed of Missouri, providing for two years education at government expense after the war for men under 21 who are drafted. It may be doubted whether this provision will go through with the bill.

In a statement before the senate committee Secretary Baker outlined the war department's attitude regarding the extension of the draft age. The secretary explained that his original idea, before the passage of the present draft law, was that the minimum age should be 19, instead of 21, as congress decided. He was now converted to 18 as a minimum by the nation's need of men for the battle line in France.

It is interesting to note the secretary's suggestion that the new draft regulations be made such that registrants will be relieved by the necessity of claiming exemption in order to have their proper status under the law recognized. He realizes that at times, as matter now stand, men honestly entitled to exemption for one cause or another are restrained from claiming it by patriotic motives. Mr. Baker would have the government, rather than the individual, do the selecting under the new legislation.

Further, the secretary is "inclined to think that the marriage relation will in itself constitute deferred classification. The fact of their registration, however, will permit the government to keep tabs on them for future use. It may be surmised that men near the other extreme age proposed, 45, will not be called on for military service except in some supreme emergency. For industrial reasons if for no other, however, it is desirable that the government shall get by registration a definite idea of the manhood resources at its command.

The house committee on military affairs has not yet considered the new draft bill. A meeting of the committee will be called soon. It is to be expected that house as well as senate will appreciate the urgent need of new legislation in this direction and give the bill prompt and favorable action.

THE CZECHO-SLOVAK NATION.

(Chicago Post.)
The Czecho-Slovak nation has come into being with the recognition of Great Britain, France and Italy and the sympathy of the United States. It has organized itself under a national council and it is represented by three well equipped armies fighting for the cause of democracy on three fronts.

Its people no longer profess allegiance to the Hapsburgs. The yoke of Austria has been thrown off in purpose and they are the open enemy of the dual monarchy and of Germany. Their territory is still under control of the oppressor, but they are in revolt, and only martial law maintains the semblance of Vienna's authority in Bohemia and Moravia.

Thus the disintegration of Austria-Hungary has begun and the allied countries are of one mind in the determination that it shall be that the president put his greetings into a song, and to furnish him with the song, as follows:

Salute me only with thy fist,
And don't attempt to buss me;
The very thought of being kissed
Is quite enough to fuss me.
If you must kiss, try it on Gompers—
He hasn't been kissed since he wore rompers.
—Minneapolis Tribune.

If he will but kiss Jim Ham Lewis
I beg you, sir, to lead him to us;
'T would be a briber kiss and a briber
I'll bet, amidst that peach-blow whisker.

Paper Too Valuable.
And now Boy-Ed has written a book about the United States. Well, the United States has lived through worse than that.—Macon Telegraph.
But my, my; what a book the United States could write about Boy-Ed if it considered him worth the paper.

Dear, Dear.
Should all the States go dry, why then I wonder what they are
To do with all those gentlemen
Who're members of the bar
—Newark Advocate

We'll take the young ones if you please,
(Altho' 'twill make them sore)
And place them in the factories
To help us win the war

For the rest it makes no difference
Which way the states may go,
For with them wine of eloquence
Will never cease to flow.

Did You Know

That there is a singular sandstone rock in the Nubia, situated about a mile from the right bank of the Nile, called Jebel Barkal? It is quite isolated, perpendicular on the side facing the river and very steep on all sides. It is about two miles in circumference at the base, and 400 feet in height, its summit forming a broad plateau. Between it and the river are the remains of some magnificent temples, the two principal ones being known as the Typhonium and the Great Temple, one of the largest monumental ruins of Nubia. The ancient city of Napata is supposed to have been situated in this vicinity. The two granite lions in the Egyptian Room of the British Museum were brought from here in 1832.

carried on until the political patch work that has served so well the ambitions of predatory monarchs is destroyed.

The achievement of this end, made just by every consideration of the rights of subjugated peoples and the for which we are fighting, means the death blow to the Pan American conspiracy. It will deprive Prussia of her most useful agent, her essential instrument for control of the Balkans and the highway of Bagdad. It will dissipate the dream of a middle Europe. It is as necessary to a complete victory over the Potsdam plotters against world peace as the defeat of the kaiser's armies in France and Flanders.

A glance at the map will show what strategic importance attaches to the territory of the Czecho-Slovaks. The mountain land of Bohemia is like a clinched fist thrust into the ribs of Germany. It will smash the schemes of Prussia for a consolation of weaker states if it passes into the control of a people who do not recognize the authority of Berlin. It will carry with it the Slavic territory to the east and will be a beacon light of freedom and revolt for the people of Poland and the people of southern Slavdom.

The United States has yet to bring itself abreast of the overseas democracies in its attitude toward the Czecho-Slovak nation. The expression of American sympathy, recently given by our state department, should be followed by full recognition of the national council as "trustee for the future government."

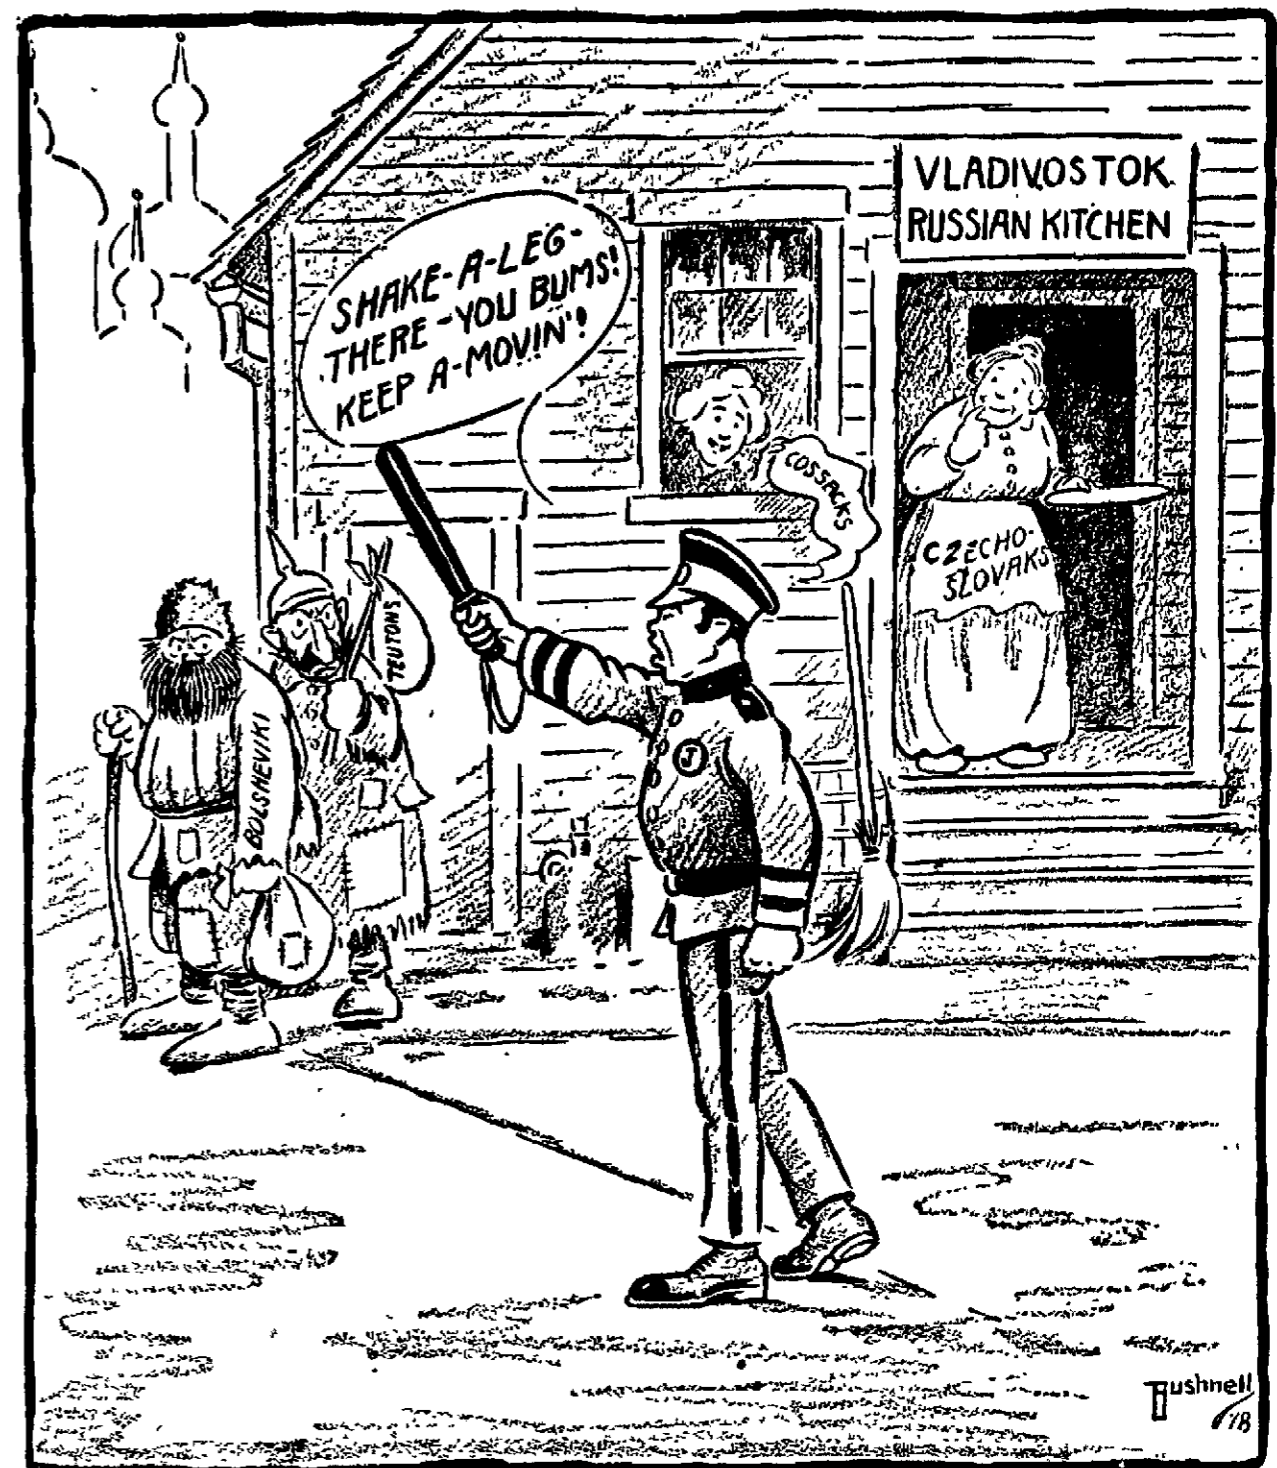

We cannot afford to be bold and definite in declaring ourselves in this issue. No further reason exists for considering the feelings in Vienna. No hope remains of making a separate peace with the dual monarchy that will not be a peace in the interests of German. There is no excuse for avoiding any step that will hasten the downfall of the Hapsburgs. We owe it to the large element in our population of Czecho-Slovak origin, an element that has been loyal in word and deed from the first hour when we entered the war, to lend every aid possible to their bloodline in Europe in the heroic struggle for emancipation that they are making.

WELL-TEMPERED JUSTICE.

(Philadelphia Record.)
Here's a story that was told in the news columns but some may have missed it, and it's the sort of thing that can't be told too often. At Camp Devens, Mass., Private Russell R. Vaughn was tried by court-martial for desertion and was plainly guilty. It was shown that two days after he enlisted in Company I, Fourth Infantry, at Council Bluffs, Ia., last August, his mother wrote that his father was incapacitated and that she and two younger children were dependent on charity. Without applying for leave the boy went home, and for six months supported the family. When the father was able to go back to work the lad gave himself up.

For the military authorities in charge of the court-martial there was nothing to do but inflict the prescribed punishment, three years at hard labor, forfeiture of pay and allowances, and dishonorable discharge. Major Barratt O'Hara, judge advocate, recommended clemency, and Colonel George L. Byroade, commandant of the camp, mitigated the sentence to six months at hard labor. All the requirements of strict army discipline had thus been fulfilled. Thereupon Colonel Byroade suspended the mitigated sentence and with a bit of soldierly advice—"gruff," of course—restored the boy to his former place in his company. If you had been there—if you are a woman, or a real man—you would have wanted to kiss the major, the colonel and the boy, all three.

LICKING COUNTY SOLDIERS' LETTERS

Neil Mayer in France.
Mrs. George Mayer of 417 North Eleventh street, has received the following letter from her son, Corp. Neil Mayer, with the American forces in France:

Somewhere in France,
July 30, 1918.

Mother have you received any mail from me since I left the States? In my last letter from you nothing was said about any mail from me. I am feeling fine and getting heavier since I came over here. We are having some more hot weather and sure need rain. The people are working hard to get their grain cut and out of the fields. Their crops look nice and the grain is very heavy this year. There is not much here to spend your money for. If the allies keep on like they have the last week or two there will be a big change before long. The people here do not thing the war will last over three or four months, and there are many bets made that we would be home by Christmas. Well I hope so anyway. The French are very nice to us and are trying to learn our language as hard as we are theirs. Most all of them wear wooden shoes around the house. You can hear them coming a block away. Well Mother it is getting late so will have to close, with best wishes to all. As ever,

Guy Bazler's Letter.

The following letter has been received by T. A. Bazler from his son Guy, who enlisted sometime ago, and who is now somewhere in France with the sixth division, Company A, military police:

"June 29, 1918.

"Dear Folks—Since the last time you have heard from me I have traveled a good many miles. Today is the first time I have had time to write to you. I am in the best condition that I could possible be, and about everyone else is the same. "We had a fine trip across. The weather was grand—except one day. A good many of the boys were seasick and did not enjoy the trip—at least while they were so sick. Had a canteen on ship, and could buy anything you could wish; also, a Y. M. C. A., which held services on Sundays and gave us books to read. I read all the time, except when on guard, and then could catch a few odd moments when off duty. "After looking at water and sky for some days I found myself one day looking at France. It is some country. I could not begin to tell you all about it but will tell you after I get back to old U. S. A. "The French people treat you fine. I am working with one now. It is hard to understand some things he wants, but with signs we get along good. The first morning I worked with him he gave me a glass of wine. I shook my head at it. Then he got another bottle for me and I took a glass and filled it with water and drank it, and he shook his head and made some motions like some of those fellows we haul to the hospital, and said: "No good; no good." I guess he thinks I am a minister because I don't drink.

"You ought to have seen us trying to learn the money value. You go in to buy things and give him a dollar and it very near fills two pockets for the change that you get back. "I wrote for William to come over and see me but he did not come, and I saw Tuk's brother in camp but suppose he told you by this time. By the way, I have seen Charles Shaw, but he did not see me.

"How is everything going? Does the ambulance run good? I hope the Davis boy is getting along good. I haven't heard a word since I gave you the last address. I hope I will run across some of the boys from home, for they will know the news, and maybe I can tell them some, for I read everything in the paper while in camp. Don't forget to have that stopped for I can get a paper now and then over here.

"Tell all the boys to write and tell me the news. I won't have the time to write to each one, but they surely can find time to write while they are sitting around the office some Sunday or evening through the week. Has any more joined the navy? Tell John not to let the Buick run away before I get back for we want to take some rides. I saw a large Winton six sailing down the road and it reminded me of some of those fast runs I made with the ambulance when I beat the other ones there.

"I went down to the creek and took a swim last night. The water was fine, but gee! it was cold. We have some fine water here to drink—just like ice water.

"The next time I write I hope I will get a pen some place that will write. Always write in ink. Hope to hear from you soon. Your son, Tells of Being Gassed.

The following two letters have been received by Mrs. Nancy Brown of 213 North Thirteenth street, from her son Robert Brown, now with the American Expeditionary Forces in France:

July 30, 1918.

Dear Mother, Father and all at home:
I have been up at the front for sometime until the other night. I was slightly gassed. I am in a Base Hospital now and am getting along all O. K. I hope this will find you all well. Please don't worry about me, because it won't do any good, and I will get along all right. I am getting plenty to eat, and a good bed so sleep is so don't worry about me. I got that check that Carl sent me, but I haven't needed it just yet, but don't know how soon I may need it. I have got two months pay this time, and I may send the most of it to you. I am still reading my little Bible every day and night, and I know that the Lord has blessed me. I write music when I have any spare time. As you know I always enjoyed that. I don't believe I would have got gassed if I hadn't dropped over. The world just went dark and I hit the ground and when they woke me up I was at a first aid station, and then down here. Gee this is sure come fine place. I guess they have a band here and it plays every week. I will be glad to hear it, as it will make me feel more at home. Lou, asked me why I didn't stay in the band. So I will tell you. You know I told you when I was home, that the band all have to carry litters, and they didn't think I could stand that, because it takes a fellow that's strong for that kind of work. I don't think I could have stood that, kind of work very long. So they sent me to a line Co., which was Co. H. I have written a little Waltz for piano and I will send it home and you give it to Martha and let her play it over and see how it is. I am praying for you all and I know you are praying for me. I hope the war will soon be over and I could come back home, and I think I will get back again some day so don't worry, because that does not do a bit of good. Gee I hope the band will play soon. We had a Grafophone in here last night, and it sounded pretty good, but not as good as a military band. I am sure getting fine eating here, and all I can eat. We got good eating even when I was up on the front, but not so often, as it was kind of hard to get it up to us, but it is a clench that none of Uncle Sam's boys has ever starved yet. And I know that God will give us strength to bring the War to Victory in Jesus Christ.

Robert Brown,
H. Co. 4th U. S. Inf., A. E. F. France

August 1, 1918.

Dear Mother, Father and all at home: I am feeling all O. K. and am getting plenty to eat. I just got a Red Cross package that a Y. M. C. A. man was passing around. I got a handkerchief and a looking glass, and a little diary book and a fine lead pencil and some game and candy and chewing gum. So I think that is pretty good, don't you? I tried to get that check cashed, that Carl sent me, but they would not cash it, so I will send it back to you. I have got about 30. Francis left over from last pay and I will draw two pays this time so I guess I won't need it. They are going to have a Band Concert here on Friday and if I get any chance to get in this band I believe I will, or at least I am going to try to any how. I composed a Waltz and several other pieces in spare moments, while I was up at the front. I sent Martha one copy of the Waltz and I am also sending Miriam Thompson a copy to. I hope this will find you all well and I hope you won't worry about me, because the Lord has blessed me, and I am trusting in him each night and day, and that is all one can do. So don't worry because I think the war will be over in a few days and how I hope so. I thought I had better write and let you know that I had been gassed because I know just how you would worry, and I suppose the Government officials has let you know before you received letter. But I am getting along all O. K. And I suppose I will be back in my Co. before long, unless I should happen to be lucky enough to get in the band that is stationed here. I am certainly thankful for all those nice things the Red Cross have given me, and they are sure doing a great work for the boys. I will write as often as I can, but when I was up at the front it was hard to write because you can not get paper and envelopes. But they have everything a fellow needs here. And they have moving pictures here about every night or so. I am going to get some of this music published when I come back to the States, some day. I guess I will have to send Ellis a copy too. I was talking to a fellow and he said that he thought I could get in this band here. Gee I hope so. He said it was just for this unit. But I may get attached here to the band and work at my trade, and how I will try. I just wrote you a letter the other day so I will close for this time, with love to mother, father and all at home. May God bless you.—Good bye.

PROF. D. P. McDONALD.

On September 3 the Newark Business College begins its thirty-fourth school year; 225 students attended this popular college last year. It is interesting to note also that its graduates are not lacking in patriotism. Ten girls of last year's class are doing their bit for Uncle Sam in Washington, Norfolk and Philadelphia. Mr. McDonald, the principal, states that the government is desirous of securing thousands of additional stenographers, bookkeepers, typists and clerks. Girls who have ambition, a fair education, and can leave home, should take a special course in this college and fit themselves for one of these positions; they could not serve their country to better advantage. Mr. McDonald has just returned from an extended eastern trip, where he visited and inspected the work of the best schools there, with the intention of incorporating new ideas into the policy of the Newark Business College. The same advantages are offered students of this college as are given in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. Never before were girls in such demand as now. The state civil service needs additional stenographers. Business needs more clerical help.

busy way with a feeling that all the world was bright and happy.

A successful business man once remarked that he owed his success to the firmness of his wife's breakfast caps. Her crisp dainty freshness sped him on his daily way through his business life with a heart full of cheer and courage. A soiled negligee no matter how beautifully embroidered, is as depressing in the early morning as the slow gurgle of the lawn. If you have it of that stubborn brand, and requires the nightly visit of the maid to don one of the fascinating little boudoir caps which are so generous in their desire to cover all unsightly tresses. If you are a negligent woman, be careful in the selection of the colors and the daintiness of your lounging robes. The early dawn is not as lenient as the soft rays of the evening lights. Harsh colors and bad neck lines will add years to your appearance. Start the day right for your family as well as for yourself. Should your throat muscles have become flabby as a result of wearing high collars, the neck must be exercised, massaged and treated with a bleach and an astringent. Good results may be secured by spreading a bleaching skin food on a cloth and binding it around the neck. This should be worn during the night and the neck, in the morning should be treated with cold water to close the pores.

Patriotism in Stories.

Every story, worth while or otherwise, that the little child hears becomes part of his life. Its characters are alive for him, he puts its incidents into action in his daily work and play and he remembers the story's teachings long after the story teller has forgotten it. There is a new hunger that we ought to satisfy in childhood, this story hunger. Especially do we need to utilize the child's imagination just now as a means of developing those civic virtues and the love of country that will make the children of today good American citizens of tomorrow. Child patriotism is begun in service and expressed in home service, for the home is the republic of childhood. If the mother and kindergarten connect home service and simple community service with a love for and reverence for the flag, the first impressions of patriotism will be inculcated in children.

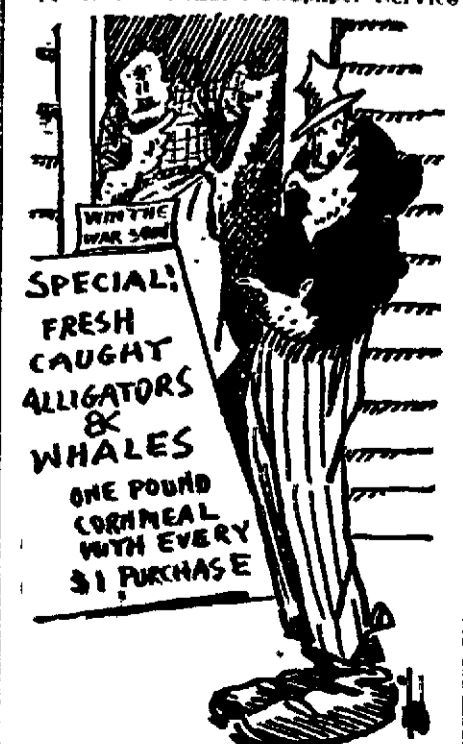

Barber Blames Customer.

This stuff about the talkative barber is all wrong, it appears. A barber writes Seattle Post-Intelligencer protesting against further misrepresentation. It is the customer who insists upon opening his heart, he writes, and the poor barber is obliged to listen to all manner of confidential patter, home troubles, scandals, and occasionally the customer spills a bum tip on the stock market and the barber goes broke. It is this latter contingency that impels him to protest.

The woman who wears a decolette gown evidently has no fear of the backbiter.

Our Boys and Girls

Where there are small children articles of wool are constantly in use and therefore, require washing. Unless it is properly done they will be ruined. If this simple plan is followed, success is sure.

Make a fairly hot soda with a good quantity of water. Immerse the article and allow it to soak for half an hour. Squeeze out and around, then squeeze out as much moisture as possible and press it between two towels. (Press through) in warm water until all traces of the soap are gone. Then squeeze the article flat on a towel and twist the towel tight to get out more water. Now put a clean towel in a large agate pan or china bowl place the article inside, and if it is not all warm open and leave the door open. The washed piece will look almost like new.

IF YOU CANNOT GET COAL, BURN WATER

Magog Falls, Sherbrooke, Quebec

Are you worrying about coal shortage, Mr. Manufacturer? Does the outlook spell "shutting down" for you? Do not be discouraged. A remedy is at hand; a remedy tried and proved by many manufacturers. Use water power.

Where is this water power, do you ask? Good sites in the United States have been pre-empted pretty generally, you say. Granted, then why not cross the border into Canada and use some of that seventeen million horse-power water power going to waste over there? Why do the Canadians not use it, you ask. They do use some, but not all. Canada has an available water power of almost nineteen million horse-power of which she uses about 10%. This small percentage supplies, with a few exceptions, all the principal Canadian cities and a great majority of its towns and villages, and not a few farms, with hydro-electric energy. Further, this 10% yields a considerable surplus which is exported. New Brunswick's surplus goes to Maine, Quebec's to New

Grand Falls, New Brunswick

York, Ontario's to New York and Minnesota, and British Columbia's to Washington.

The bearing which this exportation of power has upon the imports of coal into the provinces of Ontario and Quebec, the source of two-thirds of the available current, may be surmised. Since the war resulted in a scarcity of vessels for transporting coal up the St. Lawrence for the industries of Montreal, there have been converted to the use of electrical energy in that vicinity, no less than one hundred and fifty private steam plants with a demand of about as many thousand horse-power. Others are considering a like transformation. Hydro power being the one necessary commodity which decreases in cost in proportion to the increase in demand and use, makes it clearly the manufacturing force of the future, and as coal is not at all likely to revert to pre-war prices, many industries supplying the world's markets will take advantage of this fact by locating in Canada where raw materials are plentiful. The vanguard is already there and reaping benefits.

Canada is blessed with almost every form of the basic elements of manufacture and the natural powers by which these may be developed. It has lands suited to diversified agriculture sufficient to sustain a greatly increased industrial population. Canada is crossed by great trade routes over which Canadian products travel to far distant markets.

BARLEY ACCUMULATION SERIOUS TO FARMERS

Grain Elevator, Baltimore, Md.

Barley Harvesting

American Barley raisers are expressing great concern over the situation affecting the prices of their crop. Food Administration reports show that an over supply of barley is piling up in the country elevators. Since experiments have shown that the American people do not take to barley bread, the statement is made that the great barley crop which American farmers raise may have comparatively little value aside from its use in the making of beer.

The Allies, it is reported, have almost quit buying barley. This has resulted in low prices and a resultant accumulation of great quantities of barley in the smaller grain elevators. The visible barley supply at the principal points of accumulation according to the United States Food Administration's figures, shows an increase of nearly 1,000,000 bushels over last year. The figures show that over 20 per cent of the 1917 barley crop was still on farms March 1.

The Food Administration in citing conflicting statements made in the prohibition fight on the use of barley for beer-making, declares that approximately 30 per cent of the barley brewers use is recovered and can be used as cattle feed. Food Administrator Hoover has expressed himself in favor of using the excess barley for beer-making, provided the percentage of alcohol is cut down to 23 per cent, as has been done. It will be much harder to get drunk, he says, on a mild brew of beer than to stop beer-making entirely which, in his judgment, would result in putting the country on a whiskey, brandy and gin basis with from 40 per cent to 50 per cent alcohol.

Some interesting reports on Great Britain's successful experiment in permitting beer-making during the war are expected when Mr. Hoover returns from London.
